

Quick Reference Guide for Kentucky Authorized Practitioners

How to provide Medical Cannabis Certifications

After receiving authorization from their respective state licensing board, Practitioners must register with the Kentucky Office of Medical Cannabis (OMC) in order to provide written certifications recommending use of medical cannabis. The following steps illustrate how an authorized medical cannabis practitioner provides a qualified patient with a written certification:

Diagnosing Qualifying Medical Conditions

For a patient to qualify for a medical cannabis card, an authorized practitioner must diagnose the patient with, or confirm the diagnosis of, a qualifying medical condition contained in KRS 218B.010(26) and believe the patient is likely to receive safe and effective therapeutic or palliative benefit from the use of medical cannabis.

Qualifying Medical Conditions

- ▶ Any type or form of cancer
- ▶ Chronic or severe pain
- ▶ Epilepsy or other intractable seizure disorder
- ▶ Multiple sclerosis, muscle spasms, or spasticity
- ▶ Chronic nausea or cyclical vomiting syndrome
- ▶ Post-traumatic stress disorder

Standards of Care for Certifications

When determining if a patient has a diagnosis that qualifies for a medical cannabis certification, a practitioner must adhere to the applicable Standards of Care set forth by KBML in 201 KAR 9:067(8) and by KBN in 201 KAR 20:067(8).
